HOLIDAY HELP If you've left all your holiday shopping to this last week, here are some shopping survival tips from The Experience Team:

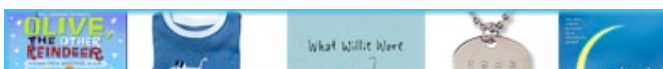

- Start with a list. Write down the names of everyone you want to buy for. Are there some people you won't see until the New Year? If so, put off buying their gift until after the busiest shopping week of the year.
- Plan your route. Instead of running around in circles, figure out how to start at one end of the mall and, without any back-tracking, get everything you need before you return to your starting point.
- Have fun! Even if aisles are crowded and lines are long, you can still smile while you shop. Spread your holiday cheer.
